Home Care Software Solutions, Inc. Announces Partnership with MaxMD

Cary, NC, April 21, 2011 — Home Care Software Solutions, Inc. (HCSS) announces a partnership with MaxMD to provide secure communication tools to home health care agencies. HCSS has already begun integrating .mdEmail®, the secure, HIPAA-compliant email service from MaxMD into its CareSmart™ Agency Management Software.

“Agencies are looking for HIPAA-compliant solutions that will enable user-friendly, efficient and secure communications that improve patient outcomes,” said Jana Barile, President of HCSS. “This partnership with MaxMD gives our agencies a cost-effective solution that provides secure email, secure instant messaging, and digital signatures.” While HCSS clients are already utilizing MaxMD as a stand-alone solution, HCSS anticipates the full .mdEmail integration to be completed by summer 2011.

Max.MD (<http://www.max.md>) is a global secure healthcare network that employs a segment of the internet, the .md top level domain, as a secure transport layer. The network is a universal health IT solution that facilitates the secure exchange of structured and unstructured data between independent organizations and disparate systems. Max.MD offers unparalleled privacy and a dynamic new approach to secure information sharing. Max.MD’s products allow individuals, enterprises or software solutions to easily connect into the network without retraining, work flow disruption, or costly investments in new software. Max.MD offers the healthcare industry internet connectivity without the security concerns associated with portals, tracking cookies, scrapping or data breaches that are common to Web1.0 solutions.

Founded in 2005, Home Care Software Solutions, Inc. provides comprehensive software and solutions to manage the day-to-day activities of home health care agencies. HCSS is a privately owned software company totally devoted to the home health care industry. Thousands of clinicians and patients depend on CareSmart™ agency management software for clinical and agency excellence.

CareSmart™ is a trademark of Home Care Software Solutions, Inc. (registration pending) in the United States and/or other countries.
